TO BENHAM COMRADES
IN THE SERVICE OF CHRIST

FIFTY years have passed since the founding of the Benham Club. Within those years its history has been forming. In memory of its mid-centennial anniversary, and with a sincere hope that friendships and acquaintances founded in Christian fellowship may be strengthened and unified, and that future members may retain the same life and spirit, Benham Club of Princeton Theological Seminary presents to its members and friends this brief history.

HISTORY

THE CLUB HOUSE

HISTORY

IT WOULD be out of harmony with the spirit of the Benham Club, if her historian were to discuss at length, in detail, or with critical accuracy the more sober and material aspects of her physical existence; and he would expect to be greeted on all sides with the old Benham Sssss—Boooooom—Baaaaa, the reception so effectively accorded the punster and all who fall short of the traditional heights of levity around the Benham board. So we will pause only briefly over the history of the Club in outline.

The Benham Club was founded in October, 1879, when six men banded together to take their meals at the home of Mrs. Benham. At that time Seminary students were eating at the Refectory (more often called "the Refectory") or in private boarding houses. George A. Marr and W. I. Steans formed a group with four other men, L. W. Beattie, Charles Lee, H. A. MacKubbin, and Samuel A. Martin and secured as their hostess Mrs. Anna Amelia Benham, who then lived on the northeast corner of Canal Street (now Alexander) and the avenue leading to the railroad (one block below the street now leading to the station). There were accommodations for twelve men and the food was so far superior to that of the Refectory that many sought admission. But the founders insisted upon congeniality as a first condition of membership and admitted other students slowly. Not until near the end of the academic year 1879-80 was the table full.

During the second year, the membership was increased to nineteen, and in the spring of 1881 Mrs. Benham moved to the larger house immediately north of her own. During the session of '85-'86 the membership was twenty, and the following year twenty-two. The addition of a bow window in 1895 made room for still further increase in numbers. The new house remained the home of the Club until the death of Mrs. Benham in 1905, and in fact, throughout the year of '05-'06.

A former historian writes: "When one inquires of the early days he becomes impressed by the prominent place unanimously given to Mrs. Benham. The Club today bears her name and respects her memory but the undergraduates do not and cannot have the same feeling toward her that their predecessors had. It is simple truth to say that all of them esteemed her highly and many really loved her. She was an excellent housekeeper and business woman, with unusual common sense and rarely devoted to her 'boys' as she called them. She seldom saw them indeed, being occupied in the kitchen at meal times, but she knew them all and followed their course both in the Seminary and later with a genuine sympathy and pride that was almost motherly. She regarded her duties very seriously and all who were in the Club during her lifetime remember not only the over-abundant supply of good things she provided three times each day, unfailingly year after year, and the unwearying patience that must have been sorely tried sometimes, but also numberless little additions that showed she was mindful of the weather, the classroom, a holiday, a birthday, an examination or anything else that might affect the mood of the Club. It was her devotion that made the Benham Club possible and any other name for it would be a misnomer."

The event of Mrs. Benham's death had been foreseen by the Club and steps had been taken toward reorganization in another form. The Club had now reached a position of such strength and individuality that its continuance was not questioned and Mrs. Benham had made a generous contribution to it in her will. The Seminary Refectory had been closed some years before, compelling the men to find board elsewhere. At a meeting of the graduate and undergraduate members, it was decided to "have the Club incorporated, to buy a suitable home and so to perpetuate the old name and traditions." The house and lot at 95 Mercer St., about a block from the Seminary, were purchased and have remained the home of the Club to this day.

The historian of 1912 writes that membership in the Club was restricted to thirty at that time. Further changes in the Seminary have wrought some alterations in the Club. There are now four eating Clubs of the Seminary, to one of which every student belongs. Elections are managed according to a uniform inter-club system of preferential voting. As a result, the membership of the Club varies with the size of the student body. During the session of 1928-29 there were over sixty members, while this year, the fifty-first of the life of the Club only forty-three have the honor, seven of whom are married and not eating regularly at the club.

The development of the judiciary or governing body of the Club forms a unique chapter in her history. When the Club was formed, George A. Marr had the responsibility of securing a hostess and managing the business end of the organization. As a result of a jest at the table one day, he was dubbed "the Chief," and the title remains to the present time for the highest officer in the Club, although the duties pertaining thereto have been modified somewhat. The mock seriousness of the name gives evidence in the founders of the spirit which has pervaded the life of the Club for half a century.

From time to time, the force of circumstances, changing conditions, and ye goode old Benham spirit have caused to be created new offices for various purposes—or none at all. Some of these have retained very nearly their original nature down to the present, others remain though under new names, and still others have disappeared entirely.

There seems to be record of no time in these fifty years when the powers that rule in Benham's halls have not been faced with the problem arising from the inability of some to free themselves from the embrace of Morpheus by the stated time for breakfast. In the first year of the Club's existence it was deemed wise to institute the office of mace-bearer, whose function it was to throw the ranks of lethargy into confusion. The degree of success attained by this device is not known, but the office seems to have fallen into obscurity before long. Later Mrs. Benham solved the problem by dividing the breakfast into two parts distinguished by the serving of a larger salver of steak or other meat. (Oh, happy days!) Then the aim of each man was to time his arrival so that he would reach the table just as the second provision put in its appearance. At one time a "moral lock" was placed on the door at a certain hour, but it seems to have been too easily "picked." Alas, the Club's heart is hardened. There is no official rouser of the somnolent today, and the fate of him who makes bold to arrive for breakfast after 7:40 lies in the calloused hands of the relentless waiter.

The office of the Judge, which is second in rank today, had its historic origin some time during the first years of the Club in the office of the Censor, whose duty it was to ascertain, by fair means or foul, who of the members were engaged. By 1883 the office was recognized as a permanent institution and its province enlarged. We are told that the Censor "now assumed the right to settle disputes between members whether they be of a mundane or purely imaginary character, and to hand over any dissenter to the stern mercies of the Sergeant-at-arms, an officer about whom nothing more is known; to correct grammatical mistakes or errors in logic, and faithfully chastise the guilty—in general to exhibit his ability for saying, in the most approved fashion, something about everything, and everything about nothing.” After the year 1885 this officer was known as the Judge in a futile attempt to clothe him in greater dignity. Howbeit, clothes don’t make the man.

Apparently not until comparatively recent times were the duties devolving upon the Judge modified to their present limited scope. He now has only to make of himself a secretly enjoyed but outwardly disdained general nuisance by imposing promiscuously the fines elsewhere discussed, and thereby becomes the center of the rounds of good humor with which Benham’s walls traditionally resound.

During the session of 1885–86 the Club voted to establish the office of an assistant to the Chief to act in his absence. The historian of 1895 writes: “The office thus constituted has not survived, unless it be in the honorary position of ‘Judge of the Second Steak.’ When the presence of the last named was historically made necessary, the narrator cannot decide.” Neither has the “last named” survived, and a critical examination of the sources reveals nothing further about either of these positions. The Judge now acts in the absence of the Chief. About 1888–89 the office of Assistant Judge was created, and “Ezra” made his appearance about two years later to record all fines imposed. For several years a poet and a historian also moved in the honored circle of the Club’s elected but faded into oblivion sometime in the “golden nineties.”

Before the Club was a decade old the need of a Musical Director was felt, and such an office was created in the year 1886-87. It had an irregular existence until the year 1904-05 when the title was changed to "Precentor." The following year an Assistant Precentor was elected also, and these two officers have been quite audibly in evidence ever since.

With the reorganization in 1905-06 arose the necessity of a Steward and an Assistant Steward to manage the house-keeping and the business side of the Club's life. Sometime after 1912 the office of Treasurer was instituted. Still more recently has been created the office of "Bishop." He is elected by the Juniors to be their Chairman and represent them on the Judiciary. It is also his duty to send men out on the missionary projects that are directly under the care of the Club.

That completes the Judiciary of the Club at present, but we cannot leave the subject without mention of the one honorary office now existing—that of the "Pope." It is incumbent upon him to issue at irregular intervals and more or less frequently a papal bull or ultimatum on any weighty subject—the less subject the more weight. If there be no subject, the bull is forthcoming regardless.

The chief purpose of the Club from its inception, of course, has been to satisfy the hunger of its ravening members. Seminary students are proverbially sufferers from the torment of Tantalus and so are "peculiarly fitted to appreciate the bliss of a well-rounded meal." We are told that "Mrs. Benham from the first received the complete confidence of her guests." Whether all the Stewards since her time have enjoyed the same trust is another question.

An early historian writes: "In addition to the regular meals usually associated with a dining-room, the good old custom of indulging in occasional extraordinary gastronomic achievements was not long in winning a recognized place in the social program. About 1880 it was expected of a man who became engaged that he 'spread a feast.' Whether this resulted in too many feasts, or operated as a check upon engagements we do not know; but we find a little later that the engaged men began to unite their issue and provide one feast, which would be accepted as a just discharge of the obligations of all of them. This was called the 'Crosby Dinner,' a term whose significance appears to have arisen from the fact that the members who were expected to furnish this dinner were said to have secured their 'Crosbies.' " The custom of that banquet has long since been discontinued, but it is probably the ancestor of the present custom of cake-cutting. On a stated night near the end of the year two cakes appear on the table, one with white and the other with dark icing. Each member must approach them and cut one piece for himself, his choice signifying the condition of his heart. If he cuts the white, he is still pure and untainted, while the choice of the dark cake indicates the state of marriage, engagement, or a "mutual understanding." Throughout the year whenever a member becomes engaged, he is supposed to "set the Club up" to ice cream on a Tuesday night.

About 1896 the engaged men were still so much in the minority that they needed to unite their efforts for defense. There were enough to organize, and six of them banded together and called themselves the "Hexateuchs." This is supposed to have discouraged maltreatment, and the expression of mutual enmity was confined to the "Hexateuch" yell and the "Anti-shemit" cheer. Both of these are forgotten now, perhaps because of a feeling of safety in numbers. In 1928-29 the hosts of the engaged numbered only one or two less than the faltering ranks of the innocent.

Hard times in the autumn of 1927 gave birth to an organization within the Club of a slightly different color. When one member was coldly turned down by the fair object of his love, a solemn ceremony was instituted during which his accumulated correspondence and that of a few other love-birds, whose wings had been recently clipped, were burned in a roaring fire in the middle of the campus. Thereat was formed the "Nits' Club," in which the only requirement for membership is to have been given the "cold shoulder," or to have been horribly betrayed by some fair siren of the "gentler" sex. The members have adopted as the "Nits' Club" song: "They say true love is a blessing; 'tis a blessing I never could see."

Since the first year of the Club's life there has been held an annual Fall Dinner. Originally it was on this occasion that the new members gave the first formal exhibition of their talents in wit and oratory. It is now combined with a Christmas banquet but is still called the Annual Fall Dinner. For many years there was also a Spring Dinner, the farewell of the Senior Class, each member of which made his adieu. But this has now been discontinued. At commencement time each year there is an Alumni Banquet in which graduates and undergraduates join for a few hours in the traditional joviality of the Benham Dining Hall; when the old stunts are dusted off and brought to light, and the newer ones are accepted as worthy of a place in the collection of Benham antiques; when the elder members lay aside their dignity and display once more a long-inhibited psychosis for the forward-passing of rolls.

Chicken so often found a place on the menu of the Club in Mrs. Benham's time that it was felt that the wishbone would be the most suitable Club emblem. So that particular remnant of many a sumptuous repast has been saved and is worn on one occasion each year. In the Spring of 1882 it was decided that the memories gathering about the Club might best be preserved if a photograph were made of the group sitting on the steps of the house. This was done, and pictures have been made of the Club members every year since, with the result that the walls of one room (commonly known as the "Rogues' Gallery") in the Club house are almost completely covered by the forty-eight pictures. It is on the annual occasion of the making of the Club picture that a wishbone is worn in the buttonhole of each member.

From the very beginning of the life of the Benham Club the evening meal has been a time of high spirits. In so saying it may be well to quote one who writes, "Benham has always stood for scholarship and piety but those who seek it must look at the records of the men she has turned out, the monthly Club prayer meeting. . . . and the Sunday evening vesper service—and not on Benham at dinner." It was only natural that the spirit should express itself in song, and singing has had an important part in the Club life. In Canal St. days it was the custom for the members to make the journey up the hill after dinner easier by singing on the way. Since the removal of the Club to her present home, this custom has fallen away. But the flow of jovial music from about the table has in no degree abated. He who is blest with no singing voice must make a joyful noise. The songs that are sung change from generation to generation, but the last two years have seen the revival of some songs of years gone by as obtained from returning alumni. A Club Song was composed by Lew K. Anderson in 1926 and is now much used—particularly on special occasions.

Another traditional feature of the evening meal is "stunting." Any member with a talent for the amusement or Falstaffian edification of the Club is supposed to parade it at that time. The stunts are intimately connected with the elaborate system of injustice contained in the absurd code of fines and mercilessly administered by the Judge. When a man is fined he may appeal his fine on the merit of a stunt—a story, a song, a speech, a reading, or what not. The matter is put to the vote of the Club by which the fine may be removed, imposed as by the Judge, or doubled. (These possibilities are in approximately the reverse order of their frequency.) The Club today is exacting in her judgment of wit, and it is a wise man that knows an "appealing" stunt. The fines range from one to ten cents, and the only satisfaction with which the fleeing pennies leave their reluctant donor is in the knowledge that the funds thus accumulated are sent annually to some Benham man in the mission field. This fining tradition is nearly as old as the Club.

Originally it was the custom for new members of the Club to deliver their maiden effort on the Club's floor at the Annual Fall Dinner. Later the custom was started of testing the new men further in Homiletics in one of the dormitory rooms. Now the two have been combined in the "Homiletics exam," which is held in the Club house late in an appointed evening in the early autumn. At that time the Juniors display their ability in speaking extemporaneously before the members of the Club who encourage and discourage them as much as possible. Historical criticism reveals positive evidence that one man was once known to have spent five whole and consecutive minutes on the preparation of his speech. To him whom the Judiciary deems most worthy is presented the "Homiletics Notebook," which contains a Benhamite's notes in Ecclesiastical Theology of about 1893 and has been handed down year by year from one winner of this Homiletics prize to another with the names of its holders filling the first and last pages.

One element in the Club life which seems to be comparatively recent is the participation in inter-club athletics. Tournaments are now held in all the sports in which the Seminary students indulge. So far this year Benham has captured the championships in touch-football and the tennis singles and is leading in the race for the basketball title.

With each succeeding generation of students come changes. Their number is too great to record. But through it all half-century traditions remain. The small enrollment of the present year made it possible to revert to eating at one long table. The Pig's Den is still in existence. But, whereas a Benham man of the eighties reports that the Pig's Den was then the table much to be desired, it is now a place to be shunned. Juniors come and Benham men go. Traditions and customs are changed and revived. But Benham goes on in the spirit that always remains.

The musical score is written for piano and voice. It consists of five systems of music. The first system begins with a piano (p) dynamic and a mezzo-forte (mf) marking. The second system includes a crescendo (cres.) marking. The third system is marked 'Slowly p' (piano). The fourth system continues the melody. The fifth system includes another crescendo (cres.) marking. The music is in 4/4 time and features a mix of chords and single notes, with lyrics written below the staff.

BENHAM VESPERS

With the falling of the shadows of each Sunday evening, Benham Club gathers for its vesper service of song and prayer. Singing the favorite songs of present and bygone days, through hymns of praise and adoration, hearts are bound into closer fellowship with man and God. In the season of prayer, which follows the song service, every Benham man, wherever he may be, is remembered at the throne of grace. Those men who carry the Word of the Gospel to the far distant parts of the earth, the men who defend His message at home, the men of the active membership in the club, who are that day preaching the Word,—for each a prayer ascends to the heavenly Father that greater power from on high may be bestowed upon all for the furtherance of His Kingdom. As our closing hymn, the favorite old song of Mrs. Benham, its words so familiar to every member of the club, is sung.

Shall we gather at the river,
Where bright angel feet have trod;
With the crystal tide forever,
Flowing by the throne of God.

CHORUS:

Yes, we'll gather at the river,
The beautiful, the beautiful river;
Gather with the saints at the river,
That flows by the throne of God.

At the margin of the river,
Washing up the silver spray;
We shall walk and worship ever,
All the happy golden days.

Soon we'll reach the shining river,
Soon our pilgrimage will cease,
Soon our happy hearts will quiver,
With the melody of peace.

Following Benham tradition, the club prayer meeting continues to be held the first Thursday of every month, in the old Benham room within Alexander Hall. News of former members and their activities is reported for general information. Their letters, recently received by present members, ever a source of entertainment, comfort, cheer, and encouragement, are read with gladness and delight. There is, too, the Scripture reading with a pertinent thought given by the leader, all very brief and to the point. Then, with the lights out and every man upon his knees, the prayer flood-gates are thrown open.

A more recent innovation in Benham is the Wednesday evening hymn singing around the tables. A group of the old familiar tunes is sung. There while gathered "round the board" a brief, but inspirational song service binds closer the bonds of spiritual fellowship.

It is our earnest hope and prayer that the traditions of Benham will ever remain. It gives joy indeed to feel that those who have passed into active service remember the hour of Benham prayers. Sincerely is it desired that wherever they may go or whatever they may do, Benham hearts shall be joined as one in Benham's moments of prayer,—praying earnestly that Benham may ever send forth staunch and true soldiers of Jesus Christ.

NOTE OF EXPLANATION: The following information is intended to make more explicit a reading of the Benham Roll. A list of the abbreviations used for colleges and universities is here appended. The items in order of their occurrence are as follows: Full name, College and year of graduation, date of graduation from Princeton Theological Seminary, present occupation and address, prizes, fellowships, lectureships in Princeton Theological Seminary, connection with Faculty, Directors or Trustees of Princeton Theological Seminary, honorary or earned degree (except M. A. and B.D.). Unless otherwise noted a church or a missionary is in the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A.

It is with regret that the committee announces that the roll is not complete. Numerous letters sent out to obtain desired information were returned stamped "unclaimed" or "incorrect address." Our effort has been to make the Roll as complete as possible. Any names missing from the Roll are due to a lack of information regarding the said person.

THE BENHAM CODE

Loyal to Benham tradition, Benham has faithfully retained through the ages the code of fines, founded in the early years of her history. The system of fining members, in the course of its development has attained to a triple purpose. To the Judge, whose duty it is to enforce the code, has fallen the task of maintaining proper table manners among the members, of settling "disputes between members whether they be of a mundane or purely imaginary character," of providing entertainment in general. A small money payment, varying in accordance with the crime committed, is the penalty for violation of the code. The money secured from the fining system is sent to Benham men in service on the foreign field. The system of fines has resulted in the system of appeals. A stunt, a song, a joke may erase the fine from the records, providing a majority of the club find such to afford proper entertainment. Happy is the man whose wit and humor meets with favorable approval.

The code has been in a process of change during its existence because of varying conditions and circumstances. The system of fines now in operation is as follows:

Sec. 1, Dyspepsia—a fine of ten cents is imposed for incessant speaking on a single subject of conversation.

Sec. 2, Misfiring—a fine of ten cents is imposed for popping off with unnecessary reason.

Sec. 3, Precocious—a fine of eight cents is imposed for eating dessert before all have been served.

Sec. 4, Dumbellishment—a fine of six cents is imposed for appearing naturally dumb.

- Sec. 5, Bumptiousness—a fine of six cents is imposed for bombast.
- Sec. 6, Longevity—a fine of five cents is imposed for unnecessary reaching of articles on table.
- Sec. 7, Deer-Stalking—a fine of five cents is imposed for being seen in company with a member of the opposite sex.
- Sec. 8, A. W. O. L.—a fine of five cents is imposed for leaving the table without permission.
- Sec. 9, Butting In—a fine of five cents is imposed for appearing late at meals.
- Sec. 10, Gulosity—a fine of five cents is imposed for taking an undue portion of food.
- Sec. 11, Failure to Stunt—a fine of five cents is imposed for failure to furnish club with fitting entertainment.
- Sec. 12, Gobsloppishness—a fine of five cents is imposed for spilling anything upon the table.
- Sec. 13, Contempt of Court—a fine of four cents is imposed for the failure to appreciate the dignity of the Judge.
- Sec. 14, Informe—a fine of four cents is imposed for tattling.
- Sec. 15, Calamity—a fine of four cents is imposed for misfortune occurring in the handling of edibles.
- Sec. 16, Orchestration—a fine of three cents is imposed for unnecessary emanations of sound while eating.
- Sec. 17, Recalcitration—a fine of three cents is imposed for “gripe-ing.”
- Sec. 18, Sundowning—a fine of two cents is imposed for appearing improperly clad at meal times.
- Sec. 19, Hairesy—a fine of two cents is imposed for cheating mattress makers out of material.
- Sec. 20, Neglect of Duty—a fine of one cent is imposed for failure of the Judge to do his duty.

CONSTITUTION

Adopted May, 1907

ARTICLE I.—NAME.

The name of the club shall be the Benham Club.

ARTICLE 2.—PURPOSE.

The purpose of the club shall be to provide for the association of a limited and selected number of men whose fellowship may be mutually beneficial socially, intellectually, and spiritually; and also to provide for good substantial table board at a reasonable charge.

ARTICLE 3.—MEMBERSHIP.

SECTION 1. The membership of the club shall consist of active, graduate, and honorary members.

SEC. 2. The active members shall be students pursuing some course of study in Princeton Theological Seminary; but the number of such members shall not exceed thirty.

SEC. 3. Graduate members shall consist of those who have once been active members.

SEC. 4. Honorary membership may be conferred on any person by a unanimous vote of members present at any annual meeting of the club; but the number of such members shall not at any time be greater than five. Honorary members shall have all the privileges of graduate members, but shall not vote or hold office.

ARTICLE 4.—THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES.

SECTION 1. The responsible management of the club in its corporate capacity shall be vested in a Board of Trustees, which shall consist of seven (7) members, six from the graduate and one from the active membership of the club.

SEC. 2. At the annual meeting of the year 1907, seven (7) trustees shall be elected by ballot to wit: two (2) from the graduate membership to serve three (3) years; two (2) from the graduate membership to serve two (2) years; two (2) from the graduate membership to serve one (1) year; and one (1) who shall be the chief-elect, to serve one (1) year.

SEC. 3. At each annual meeting after the year 1907 two (2) trustees shall be elected from the graduate membership to serve three (3) years, and one (1) who shall be the chief-elect to serve one (1) year.

SEC. 4. The trustees shall serve until their successors have been elected.

SEC. 5. Any vacancies in the Board of Trustees may be filled by the club at its annual meeting; or by the trustees, who may elect a member or members to hold office until the next following annual meeting.

SEC. 6. The Board of Trustees shall have general charge of the affairs, funds, and property of the club.

SEC. 7. The Board of Trustees shall elect from its members a President, and a Secretary-Treasurer, to serve for a year or until their successors have been elected.

SEC. 8. The Board of Trustees shall meet annually on the Monday before the second Saturday in May and at the call of the President or the Secretary-Treasurer. A majority of its members shall constitute a quorum.

SEC. 9. The President and the Secretary-Treasurer of the Board of Trustees shall sign all written contracts, notes, mortgages or other obligations on behalf of the club.

SEC. 10. The President of the Board of Trustees shall preside at all meetings of the Trustees and at the annual meeting of the club; but in case of his absence a presiding officer may be elected to fill his place.

SEC. 11. The Secretary-Treasurer of the Board of Trustees shall keep the minutes of the annual meetings of the club and of the meetings of the Board of Trustees, conduct its correspondence, keep its records and the club seal, receive subscriptions to the club, pay upon voucher the debts of the club approved by any other member of the Board of Trustees, but not the debts incurred by the active membership of the club, which shall be discharged by that body. He shall report in writing to the club at its annual meeting.

SEC. 12. The Trustees shall appoint from their number a committee of two to audit annually the books of the Secretary-Treasurer. They shall also hear and receive and place on file the report of the finances and of the general condition of the active membership of the club made by the chief.

ARTICLE 5.—THE ACTIVE MEMBERSHIP.

SECTION 1. Election of Active Members.—Members shall be elected to the club at meetings called for the purpose by the chief. A quorum shall consist of three-fourths of the active membership in Princeton, provided due effort has been made to secure the attendance of all members in town. The election shall be by ballot, every active member present being entitled to one vote. The ballot must be unanimous in order to elect. Rejected names shall not be renominated for one year.

SEC. 2. Officers.—The officers of the club shall be the following: Chief, Judge, Assistant-Judge, Ezra, Precentor, Assistant Precentor, Steward, and Assistant Steward, each of whom is to be elected annually by the senior, i. e. graduating, class from the active membership.

The senior class shall choose the chief, the judge, the steward and the precentor from the succeeding class; and the assistant judge, Ezra and assistant steward from the second succeeding class; but the assistant precentor may be chosen from any class.

SEC. 3. Duties of Officers.—The Chief shall direct the business affairs of the active membership, make an annual statement to the Board of Trustees concerning the finances and general conditions, call and preside over all meetings of the active membership and of the senior class members of the club, represent the active membership in the Board of Trustees, preside at table, concur with the Ezra in fining the assistant-judge when the judge is absent, and perform all such other duties as usually pertain to the head officer.

The chief-elect shall be granted a seat but no vote in the annual May (spring) meeting of the Board of Trustees.

The Judge shall administer the code, act as secretary of the active membership and of the senior class, and preside at table in absence of the chief.

The Assistant Judge shall fine the judge according to the code and in the absence of the judge shall perform his duties in administering the code.

The Ezra shall record and collect the fines, and in the absence of the judge shall concur with the chief in fining the assistant judge.

The Precentor shall take charge of the music at the club.

The Assistant Precentor shall perform the duties of the precentor in the absence of the latter.

The Steward shall provide for the table under the oversight of the chief and shall perform such other duties as the chief shall assign him.

The Assistant Steward shall be under the training of the steward and shall perform the duties of the steward in his absence.

SEC. 4. Election of Officers.—The power to elect all officers of the active membership shall be vested in the senior class, who shall announce the officers for the ensuing year at the spring dinner.

SEC. 5. An active member may be dismissed from the club by a three-fourths vote of the active membership.

ARTICLE 6.—SENIOR CONTROL.

The members of the Senior class shall serve as an executive committee, exercising general control over the affairs of the club and transacting its business, but shall hold itself amenable (except in the matter of election of officers) to the active club, and report to it from time to time. They shall also appoint from their number a committee of two to audit the accounts of the chief.

At the option of the chief, the middle class may be invited for conference with the senior class, but at such conference no vote shall be taken.

There shall be a regular monthly meeting of the Senior class at which the chief shall present a statement of the condition of the active membership, financial and otherwise. All bills against the active membership shall be considered at this meeting, or at a call meeting of the senior class. If the bills meet the approval of the members present, the judge is authorized to provide the chief with vouchers for the same. All business transacted by the active membership in open meeting shall require a two-thirds vote.

ARTICLE 7.—ANNUAL MEETING.

There shall be an annual meeting of the club in May for the election of Trustees, the hearing of reports from the active membership and from the Board of Trustees, and for the transacting of such other business as may properly come before it.

ARTICLE 8.—HOUSE COMMITTEE.

There shall be a House Committee appointed by the chief consisting of one member from the senior class, who shall be chairman, and two members from the middle class. This committee shall have advisory power in matters concerning the property and the furnishing of the club. The committee shall report through its chairman to the senior class.

ARTICLE 9.—EMBLEM.

The club emblem shall be a wish-bone encircling the letter "B" in such general design as is found on the seal of the corporation.

ARTICLE 10.—AMENDMENT.

SECTION 1. This constitution may be amended by a three-fourths vote of the members at the annual meeting.

SEC. 2. Notice of proposed amendments must be sent to the President of the Board of Trustees at least one month before the annual meeting, and the President of the Board of Trustees shall have notice of such proposed amendments sent to the members of the club before the said annual meeting. At the said annual meeting the President of the Board of Trustees shall report the proposed amendments to the club and shall recommend such action as the Board think best.

AMENDMENTS TO CONSTITUTION

ARTICLE 3, SEC. 2. The following phrase was stricken out: "but the number of such members shall not exceed thirty."

ARTICLE 4, SEC. 2. The final clause was made to read: "and one from the active membership who shall be the chief-elect to serve for one year, but without vote."

ARTICLE 5, SEC. 1. Election of Active Members.—Members shall be taken in each autumn from the incoming students according to inter-club agreement at time of election. The meeting for this purpose shall be called by the chief. A quorum shall consist of three-fourths of the active membership in Princeton, provided due effort has been made to secure the attendance of all members in town.

Active members may be taken in at any time during the year provided there are not more than two dissenting votes.

ARTICLE 5, SEC. 2. Officers.—The officers of the club shall be the following, in order of rank as here listed: chief, judge, steward, treasurer, precentor, ezra, bishop. The chief, judge, steward, treasurer, precentor shall be elected from the Middler class to serve during their Senior year. The assistant steward, assistant judge, ezra shall be elected from the Junior class to serve during their Middler year. The assistant precentor shall be elected from either class to serve during the following year. The bishop shall be elected from and by the Junior class to serve one year. In absence of chief, highest ranking officer present shall preside.

ARTICLE 5, SEC. 3. Duties of Officers. The chief shall perform the duties of the presiding officer, make an annual statement to the Board of Trustees concerning the general condition of the club, call and preside over all meetings of the active membership, represent the active membership on the Board of Trustees, preside at table, concur with the ezra in fining the assistant judge when the judge is absent, and perform all such duties as usually pertain to the head officer.

The Judge shall administer the code, and act as secretary of the active membership and of the executive committee.

The Treasurer shall perform the duties of treasurer and book-keeper.

ARTICLE 5, SEC. 4. Election of Officers.—Officers shall be nominated by the Senior class; nominations shall be posted for one week, preceding the election; further nominations may be made from the floor at time of election; and the election shall be by a majority of the active members present. A quorum shall consist of three-quarters of the active members.

ARTICLE 6. Control of the Club. All active members shall constitute the controlling members of the club.

The executive committee shall be composed of all the officers. It shall hold itself amenable to the active membership. It shall appoint a committee of two to audit the accounts of the treasurer.

There shall be a regular meeting, monthly of the executive committee at which the steward and treasurer shall present written statements of the condition of the club, financial and otherwise.

The chief shall present a statement, monthly, to the active members, of the condition of the club, financial and otherwise.

ARTICLE 8. House Committee. The final sentence made to read: "The committee shall report through its chairman to the executive committee."

BY-LAWS

ARTICLE 1.—SEATS AT TABLE.

The executive committee shall occupy permanent seats. Other members shall draw for seats each week by lot.

ARTICLE 2.—THE CODE.

SECTION 1. The club in its deportment at table shall be governed by a code of fines administered by the officers of the club herein before provided.

SEC. 2. A committee appointed by the chief shall prepare each autumn a list of the finable offenses for that year with the penalties for each, and such other regulations as may be needed to guide the officers in the administration of the code. This code shall continue in force until a new one is adopted.

SEC. 3. The proceeds from fines under the code shall be given to some Christian cause determined upon by the active membership.

ARTICLE 3.—REMISSION OF BOARD PAYMENT.

SECTION 1. In view of services rendered no board payment shall be required of the steward; one-quarter payment merely from treasurer; and three-quarter payment from assistant steward.

SEC. 2. In case of absence of a week or more, a member may have his whole board payment remitted for the time of absence, with or without notice.

In case of regular absences over week-ends, one dollar shall be remitted for every six meals and one dollar and fifty cents shall be remitted for every nine meals missed during time of absence.

Further occasions for rebates must be presented individually before the judiciary.

ARTICLE 4.—AMENDMENT.

These by-laws may be amended by a three-fourths vote of the active members.
